Lions Club Presents Annual Rockyford Sports Day

ROCKYFORD.—Wednesday, July 26 the Lions Club held their annual sports day in the Rockyford Memorial Park.

The parade which commenced at 12 noon was highlighted by the Beiseker band. The band members looked very colorful in their gold, white and mauve uniforms. Following the band were colorful bicycles, cars, trucks and floats as well as horse-back riders.

The prize for the best float went to Mr. Ken Hendry and the prize for the best decorated car went to Mr. Ken Mitchell. Besides this, there were prizes for the best decorated bicycle, best decorated horse, most colorful costume, and many other items.

The four teams that competed in baseball were: Grayhurst, Rosebud, Standard and Rockyford. The first game was between Rockyford and Grayhurst with Rockyford leading with a score of 10-6. In the second game between Standard and Rosebud, Standard took the honors by defeating Rosebud with a score of 7-6. The third and final game was between Rockyford and Standard. Again Standard took the honors by defeating Rockyford with a score of 11-7. Thus Standard won the money for the day.

The public address system was operating all day and the ball games were broadcast by Mr. Stan Frayn and Pete Edigar.

During the intermission between the second and third games the program was halted in order that respect to McKenzie King might be paid by all. During this intermission the band played Pyles Hymn.

Races for the children were run during this intermission. Horse races and bicycle races also proved to be very interesting.

The evening was highlighted by a dance in the curling rink. A large crowd was in attendance. The midnight lunch was served from the booth by the Lions club.

The gross receipts for the entire day amounted to approximately $800.00. The proceeds will go for community betterment.

Lions Enjoy Picnic Monday, July 2

A most enjoyable picnic was held Monday evening, July 24th at Art Berreth's when some 20 car loads of Lions, Lionesses and Lion cubs covered on Art's private den.

Lion Art has his grounds beautifully arranged with ample space for picnic lunches, weiner roasts or what have you. There are swings for the kiddies, teeter-totters, and a swing-me-around which was patronized by grown-ups and kiddies alike.

After lunch Lion CPR Tidy challenged Lion CNR Wright to a ball game. This ended in a draw with the heroes of the evening being umpire Lion Darce who never called a pitch right and Lion Cub Jerry Schmaltz who scored a run every time at bat. After this hilarity the crowd returned to the picnic grounds where Lion Art has a docile wooden horse just waiting to be saddled. Two Lions sit facing each other armed with pillows, and the first to bite the dust is just lucky, because then he can laugh at the others. Winners of the amateur section was Lion Freddie with Lions Art and Clarence taking the honors in the professional section.

The men then turned to the swing-me-around for new thrills but those like your correspondent who kept their eyes open saw the Lionesses trying the horse, which was even more hilarious than the lions. Lioness Mary Vekker won this event easily.

Those Lions who were unable to attend certainly missed a treat, and all those who did attend thanked Lion Art and Lioness Florence most heartily for their hospitality.

BEISEKER NEWS BRIEFS

Val Schmaltz has discovered another advantage in owning an Austin. After a visit to the Irrigation Ditch last week for a swim he had the misfortune of cracking the crank-case on a rock, and Lou Brosteaux who was also along on this swimming expedition and who had nothing stronger than binder twine was able to tow Val back to Beiseker.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hagel and Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Miller spent a few days at Pervale visiting Mr. and Mrs. Miller's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerun. Little Diane Gerun accompanied them home, and is spending a week with her grandparents.

A number of Beiseker and district people attended the funeral of Mr. Claude E. Webb, prominent farmer of the Acme and Swallow districts, who was well known around Beiseker.

The Homecoming sale sponsored by the CWL was a splendid success, in spite of the heavy downpour of rain prior to the afternoon sale. The amount realized was $47.50.

Parents of children attending Beiseker school are again reminded that the school nurse will be here on Friday, August 5 from 11 to 12 a.m. and 1:30 to 4:00 p.m.

Parents are urged to bring children beginning school this term to this clinic for an examination which will include an eye test.

Mrs. Ken Wright and the children returned from Sylvan on the weekend.

Kenneth Bettin is spending this week at Bragg Creek.

The CWL are sponsoring a Tag day in aid of the blind on Saturday, August 26, and we hope everyone patronizes this worthy project, and gives it their full support.

Quite a number of Beiseker relatives and friends attended the funeral of Mr. Emil Wagener, Calgary last Saturday.

Beiseker Motors Ltd., held a demonstration at the farm of Ike Ternes on Friday, July 28 at 2:30 p.m. demonstrating the Johnson Tillotson. The demonstration was well attended and the machine did a good job.

snyder have moved to their new quarters in the home owned by Mr. Fred Lang.

Mrs. Ed Hagel, Sr., was rushed to the Holy Cross hospital, Calgary, Sunday morning where an emergency operation was performed early in the afternoon.

Pius Schmaltz was at home for Sunday from Haynes.

Have you seen Beiseker Motors Ltd. Building since it has had a new coat of paint? It really looks swell, and is in all readiness for sports day with their flags flying galore.

L.L. Schmaltz is a busy man these days instructing a new band. I don't know if he is trying to beat the Lions club band or the Levelland band, but at any rate we should have lots of music for our sports day.

Jimmie Hagel, a recent Beiseker High school graduate, was employed by the Royal Bank the first of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Nugent and Joe Schmaltz of Clyde were recent visitors to Beiseker.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hagel and Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith are receiving congratulations on their baby boys born last week.

Mrs. Frank Wright and the boys, Leyton and Wayne are, up north for their holidays.

Ki Killen's stay in the Col. Belcher has been prolonged by another week, and we hope that he will be able to resume his work shortly.

Considerable ivory is obtained from vast stores of mastodon and mammoth tusks found in Siberia and elsewhere.

COTTAGE SHOWN IN PARADE

BEISEKER — A wonderful childhood cottage was shown on a float in the Beiseker sports day parade and was on display balance of the day in a beautiful setting of imitation lawn. This, too beautiful to describe dream house was sponsored by the Beiseker curling club. It is more than a glorified doll house for it measures eight by ten feet with six foot studdings and a cottage roof.

The roof is finished with green asphalt shingles, the sides with silver insul brick siding and aluminum corners. It has three large windows and a glass front door complete with glass door knob. Three-quarter inch veneer was used for the flooring. The interior is painted in beautiful pastel shades of ivory and green with matching plastic curtains artistically draped on the windows and door.

A very neat veranda complete with railing adds to the realistic construction of the "oh I wish it were mine" house. That's not all. Listen to this: The house is wired with a florescent porch light, two wall brackets and one ceiling light, two double side wall plug-ins, its own fuse box and an exterior plug-in that will tap Dad's light circuit in the home building. To top it all off, there are four pictures on the walls and green shutters on the windows.

The Beiseker curling club wish to thank all those who helped in the building of this wonderful childhood cottage and especially Beiseker Motors Ltd. who furnished the wiring and fixtures and were responsible for their installation, also to Ted Becht-Hold and Henry Reifsnnyder Jr. for doing the painting. They also wish to thank the Ladies for making and hanging the curtains and the Crown Lumber Co. for the use of their premises during construction especially during the wet weather.

Most of the little boys spent this last week attending camp at Camp Hector.

FREEDOM was brief but exciting for this monkey who escaped from a Toronto pet shop. He nonchalantly sat on front lawns while children fed him candy. Police captured him with a net, returned him to the pet shop, where he is seen in a bird cage.

Red Cross Blood Clinic To Visit Strome Aug. 17

STROME.—A campaign for the registration of voluntary blood donors is now being conducted in Strome and district.

The enrolment is in connection with a Red Cross blood donor clinic being sponsored by the Board of Trade to be held Thursday, August 17, in the Memorial hall from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. It will be the first visit of the Red Cross mobile clinic since the free blood transfusion service was organized three years ago.

Persons attending the clinic will be tested first to determine they are physically fit to donate. Dieting prior to giving blood is not necessary. Pointing out the difficulty of approaching everyone personally, those in charge of the registration campaign stress the need for every citizen between the ages of 18 to 65, enjoying normal health, to attend the clinic. Time has been allowed during the clinic to accommodate a larger number of donors than are at present registered. The Red Cross mobile team, consisting of 10 members under the charge of a doctor, including nurses, laboratory technicians, nurses aides and transport drivers, are able to accommodate nearly fifty donors an hour, it was pointed out. Following the giving of their donation, donors will be served refreshments.

All blood collected by the Canadian Red Cross at clinics held throughout Alberta is supplied to any hospital patient in need of a blood transfusion entirely free of charge. Hospitals no longer call donors or maintain blood banks of their own, but depend upon the Red Cross service to supply all blood and plasma required by patients. Supplies of plasma are constantly maintained in all hospitals for immediate use in times of emergency. Altogether 133 hospitals and the patients they serve now receive free blood plasma from the Red Cross in Alberta. Last year, 20,664 transfusions were supplied by this service to hospital patients throughout the province at an estimated saving of $400,000. Since the Red Cross organized the blood transfusion service in July 1947, medical and hospital authorities have credited it with the saving of countless lives. To meet the constant demand Red Cross officials pointed out the success of the service is entirely dependent upon the support of voluntary blood donors at each clinic conducted. Lack of attendance at one clinic would result in falling short of the necessary weekly quota, thereby endangering the lives of persons in need of blood transfusions, it was stated. In Alberta 700 blood donors a week to meet the needs of hospital patients.

Prior to the Strome clinic the mobile team will visit Sedgewick on Tuesday and Provost on Wednesday.

the Keck-Gonnerman Thresher

... for 75 years the Farmer's Dependable Friend!

Almost four decades of experience in building dependable equipment for farmers has been put into the construction of the new Keck-Gonnerman Thresher . . . with the result that this thresher has exclusive construction features which are readily appreciated by the experienced farmer.

Study These Exclusive Advantages:

- 12 foot feeder carriers that are adjustable to any desired height from 36" to 74" merely by turning an adjusting crank.
- Feeder governed by fly-ball speed governor and volume control governor.
- All necessary adjustments for good threshing can be made while machine is in operation.
- Furnished with 12 bar cylinders on 28x48 and smaller machines and 15 bar cylinders on 28x50 and larger machines.
- Cylinder and blower shaft mounted on double row, self-aligning ball bearings.
- Equipped with 2 beaters for more efficient operation.
- Adjustable traveling rake chain back of cylinder elevates straw over separating grate and helps to distribute straw evenly onto racks. The rake chain added to the large concave and grate area gives the Keck-Gonnerman thresher the largest separating area of any machine on the market.
- Straw racks are divided and are evenly balanced, practically eliminating vibration of the machine.
- Six rows of steel lifting fingers operate up and down 215 times per minute while the rack moves back and forth at the same speed. The fingers toss the straw upward, tear it apart, and shake out any remaining grain.
- Heavily constructed channel and angle-iron frame put together with hot rivets. Frame will remain rigid after years of use.
- Blower shaft equipped with bull horns placed in position to auger and force a steady stream of straw into the blower. Practically impossible to choke blower.
- Full width door in rear permits sieves to be changed with minimum of time and effort.
- Heavy galvanized sheet-steel construction. Water- and weather-tight decks.
- The Kay-Gee weigher elevator is of belt and bucket construction.

Tourists Pour Into Alberta As Record Year is Forseen

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

Alberta's tourist business in July of this year reached an all-time high, according to word from the provincial government's Tourist Travel Bureau.

Reports from border points—where thousands of Americans are flooding in for their long-awaited Canadian holidays—show a 15 per cent increase in the number of cars entering Canada.

A similar increase prevails throughout the entire tourist industry. With travel up 15 per cent over 1949 (and that was 33 per cent up over 1948), Alberta stands to make about $30 millions out of tourism this year.

Dan C. Campbell, director of the Tourist Travel Bureau, added a side-light to the tourist business when he described to this newspaper the effect the Korean war has had on travel.

"With Americans," he said, "it has resulted in some speeding up their vacations and some cutting them out entirely. The businessmen are staying home, waiting to see what effect the war will have on prices asked by manufacturers, whereas the manufacturerers are hurrying up their vacations to get them over with before anything serious arises."

The Long Trip

For a lot of people, Mr. Campbell asserted, 1950 seems to be the year of the long trip. Large numbers of professional people executives and technicians, who have been waiting since before the war for a real vacation this year are taking it.

Mr. Campbell also mentioned that people are having a hard time making up their minds as to where they wish to go, citing the instance of one American family which didn't decide until their trip was actually underway, and they were in their car on the highway.

Holy Year has apparently cut down travel in North America to some extent, although it is going to be a record-breaking year for the Canadian tourist business.

A great number of people that would normally be taking long cross country trips have gone to Rome for the Holy Year festivities.

Brings in Money

Tourism, Mr. Campbell added, is Canada's second largest source of American dollars. Only newspaper brings in more foreign currency.

This year about $280 millions will be spent in this country by tourists, with between $25 and $30 millions being spent in Alberta.

"Moreover," Mr. Campbell added, "that's clear money. The people that spend it don't take anything out of the country except a few souvenirs, and they don't compete in the employment and business picture.

Of the $25 million being spent in the foothills province this year, about $14 million will end up in the hands of the farmers, as food and accommodations take up a big majority of the tourist's money.

The tourist purchase of Alberta food—to the tune of $14 millions worth—is an important element in farm prosperity.

J. F. Farley Named New B-A Manager

British American Oil has announced the appointment of J. K. Farley as manager of its Alberta division, succeeding the late J. A. Hutton. Born in Wetaskiwin, Alberta, and educated in Lloydminster, Mr. Farley joined B-A in 1928 at Saskatoon. He received several promotions within the marketing department and in 1938 became service station superintendent for Edmonton. After more than three years in the R.C.A.F., he rejoined the company in 1945 as a salesman for Calgary. The next year he was named divisional sales manager for Saskatchewan and he held this position at the time of his new appointment. Mr. Farley's headquarters are in Calgary.

Alberta Men Enlist in Forces

As Canada steps up her military program to be ready 'just in case,' recruiting centres in Alberta have been instructed to go all-out to obtain their share of the needed 8,000 additional volunteers. This picture, taken at the Edmonton RCAF recruiting office, shows two men, Thomas Charchuk, 20, of Ranfurly and Sidney Jones, 20, of Forestburg, filling in application forms. With them is Flt. Lt. A. Industrial Boom Continues As Production Increases

Alberta's industrial status is continuing to look rosy, as late reports show steady gains in production, trade and exports over 1949.

Petroleum production increased 32 per cent over April last year according to figures just released by the department of Industries and Labor of which Hon. Dr. J. L. Robinson is minister.

New motor vehicles sales showed an overall rise over April 1949, with an increase of 54 per cent from 7,364 to 11,320.

Building permits in four cities took a jump of 10 per cent from $13,820,889 in April last year to $15,261,742 this year.

Tourist trade increased four per cent in the month and visitors to the national parks increased eight per cent.

Exports of cattle, horses, sheep, lambs and hogs increased, though the return from the sale of hogs was down in value owing to lower prices.

Other commodities showing an increase were wheat and butter.

A Dying Industry

Recent laments from spokesmen of the coal mining industry in Alberta would indicate that the days of coal mining are numbered in Alberta, despite the large deposits of that fuel in the foothills province.

Spokesmen saw that market prospects are becoming increasingly bleak, what with competition from eastern coal, and local sources of natural gas and oil.

Coupled with this are the hazardous elements involved in coal mining, typified by the recent multi-tragedy at Mountain Park. There, the death of several miners are set in motion a chain reaction that may soon mean a deserted town.

In the Crowsnest Pass, in the gaunt, dirty coal mines towns, in the Drumheller fields, down the Coalbranch, and in the small mines all over the province, miners and owners alike are watching the future not a bit too sure of what will come.

Population Mounting

Canada's population rose 110,000 in the six-month period from January 1st, 1950, to July 1st, to reach 13,850,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated last week.

Obviously, at this birth and immigration rate, it will be but a matter of months before Canada tops the fourteen million mark.

Visionaries behold the day when Canada, already an industrial, agricultural and economic power, will be a political power by virtue of a population in some semblance of proportion to her land mass. This, however, is a subject for the economists to debate. Will Canada ever be that populous and can the country's natural resources tolerate such a population?

Visionaries and economists aside we believe in a policy of selective immigration into Canada of both agricultural and industrial workers, limiting in numbers to what from time to time appears to be the absorptive capacity of the country, and by practical considerations of transport and establishment. This is a sensible policy.

Scriptural Meditations

"If we regard iniquity in our hearts, if we cling to any known sin, the Lord will not hear us; but the prayer of the penitent, contrite soul is always accepted. When all known wrongs are righted, we may believe that God will answer our petitions. Our own merit will never commend us to the favor of God; it is the worthiness of Jesus that will save us. His blood that will cleanse us; yet we have a work to do in complying with the conditions of acceptance.

Another element of prevailing prayer is faith. "He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." Heb. 11:6. Do we take Him at His word?"

The Lighter Side

Toujours La Politesse

An angler, who had been trying to hook something for the last six hours, was sitting gloomily at his task, when a mother and her small son came along.

"Oh," cried the youngster, "do let me see you catch a fish!"

Addressing the angler the mother said severely: "Now, don't you catch a fish for him until he says 'Please!'"

The Monkey Trial

By T. W. PUE

Last week Canadians paid tribute to a great Liberal, the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who was singularly successful in his political life. He won six national elections.

William Jennings Bryan, who died twenty-five years ago this month was a great Liberal, as was Mackenzie King, but unlike the late Prime Minister was singularly unsuccessful. In his contests for the U.S. Presidency, he not only campaigned for election on purely political grounds but had the idea that eternal prosperity would be sure if only silver was made the basis of monetary value instead of gold—a theory that fitted in well with the ideas of the silver producing states. To the day of his death, he hadn't won even one election, but he had captured the imagination of the world by his participation in what has become known to us as the "Monkey Trial." Tennesseans, such as Mrs. J. L. Cody of Mayerthorpe, will perhaps remember these events better than I, but I find it refreshing to review them now, 25 years later.

When every girl of marriageable age was pleased to be called a flapper, and the automobile and post-war prosperity brought many people to think that God and the Bible were too old-fashioned for moderns of a quarter of a century ago, William Jennings Bryan, "The Great Commoner," delivered a lecture at the State Capitol, in Nashville, Tennessee. The date was January 29, 1925, and his discourse prompted the passing of the famous "Anti-Evolution" bill, which became a state law in March, 1925.

The law stated "it shall be unlawful for any teacher in any school supported by state funds or public schools to teach any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Christian Bible." It was, of course, unlawful to teach that man came from monkeys. The trial, therefore, centred around whether God or monkeys should receive due credit for man's creation.

John T. Scopes, Teacher

Two months later, two young lawyers sat in a Dayton, Tennessee drug store, sipping soft drinks and discussing the new law. With them, was the local high school science teacher, John T. Scopes. It soon developed that Mr. Scopes was using in his classes a textbook that supported the theory of evolution. Facetiously, at first, they accused him of breaking the law. Then more seriously, the decision was reached that Dayton should be the place to try the test case, since the American Civil Rights Union had offered to finance such a case under the new Tennessee law, and a telephone call gave a Nashville paper the "scoop" on the story which soon was headline news the world over.

Clarence Darrow, Atheist Defender

A preliminary hearing bound the case over to the Circuit Court convening in July. The Chicago newspapers arranged for Clarence Darrow, famous criminal lawyer, and an agnostic, to support the defense. A group of Christians of various denominations in Memphis enlisted the services of William Jennings Bryan for the prosecution.

On July 10, 1925, court convened, and thus began what was to be perhaps the most famous trial in the history of the American Bar. People came from all over the nation. The courtroom was crowded beyond capacity; and fearing for the safety of the overtaxed building, the proceedings were adjourned to the court house lawn. For eight days the battle raged. In the course of events, Bryan gave a masterly address defending the right of the people through their Legislature to protect their children in the public schools against destruction of their faith.

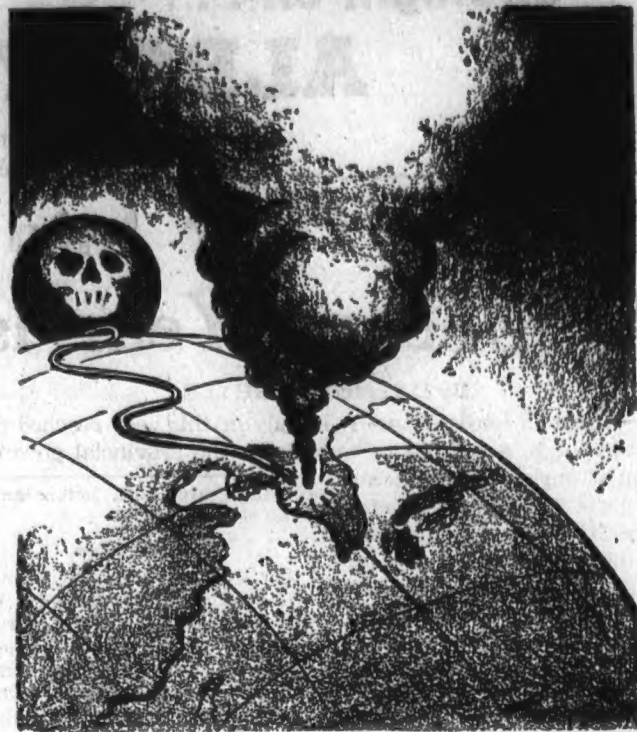

Subsequently, Darrow was sarcastic to the judge and was cited for contempt of court. His bond was fixed at $5,000 and arrangement made for bail. He then made a moving apology, and the court, using Christian principles, forgave him. On the closing day, July 21, a verdict of guilty was rendered by the jury, and Scopes was fined $100. Bryan made a short closing speech, and Darrow characterized the trial as comparable to the Puritan witchcraft cases.

Two days later, on July 23, 1925, while resting at the home in Dayton, where he was staying, Mr. Bryan "... was not, for God took him." Without warning, sickness or pain he slipped away. Forever gone were the campaigns for the presidency. No longer would he argue the case for silver monetization. The "Monkey Trials" were gone but so was the Great Commoner.

Thanks to Mr. Bryan, and a suggestion made by him before his death, American youth can still receive a formal college education without being committed to schools of atheism and "man came from year liberal arts course of study.

After his untimely death, a newspaper reporter of the trial suggested that a university be built as his enduring memorial. The proposal at once caught the popular fancy, and the plans were soon under way. And today, on Bryan Hill, stands a memorial

COMMENT FROM THE PRESS

18-Year-Olds Should Get Breaks

Lethbridge Herald

Out of Calgary comes the following news report:

CALGARY, June 30. (CP).—Sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary for assault and robbery of a Chinese grocer, 18-year-old John McKay, no fixed address, lost consciousness in police court yesterday and was carried to cells by two jailers.

The youth was convicted on Wednesday of robbing Louie Wah of about $80.

McKay looked stunned when he heard the sentence and keeled over unconscious in the prisoner's dock.

This crime may of course have been far more serious than the reading of the above dispatch would indicate, but nevertheless the punishment seems a trifle steep when you consider that the youngster involved is a mere 18 years of age. What possible good 10 years in prison will do him is beyond us. Chances are—especially if he believes the punishment unfair—he will come out of prison as great a menace to society as he was when he committed this crime.

If this boy deserves 10 years for the crime he committed, then surely some of our more prominent and mature citizens who knowingly break Foreign Exchange Board regulations or who fail to pay their income taxes should receive more than mere fines, or at worst a short jail sentence. And surely men, like one in Lethbridge recently, who also rob with violence should get more than four years in the penitentiary.

If 10 years is to be the sentence for criminals who rob with violence, then let it be 10 years for everyone. But not 10 years for a boy who is legally a child and only four years for a full-grown man.

Sometimes we think our judges are given to much leeway when it comes to deciding what punishment should be meted out to criminals. If breaks are to be given, they should be given to the 18-year-old offenders, not to mature men.

Letters to the Editor

Shame on Parents

Dear Editor— We have a Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and notwithstanding all that's been written and said some people are still wickedly stupid enough to be mean and cruel to dumb animals.

to the great commoner who fought to the death for "the faith which was once delivered unto the saints."

William Jennings Bryan University takes a positive stand upon the Bible, both the Old and the New Testaments, as the final and supreme authority in faith and life, "inspired of God, and inerrant in the original writings." Its truths are emphasized without apology in the class rooms, and are made the center of instruction throughout the entire four-year liberal arts course of study.

And so, twenty-five years after his spectacular "Monkey Trial," the spirit of a great man, a failure in politics, but a success in the things in which he most surely believed, lives on in the hills of Tennessee.

We also need a Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. I am thinking particularly of abusive treatment given babies and young children by irresponsible young mothers. Parents who are continually slapping and hitting children in public places only prove to everyone how much of a failure they themselves are. Also there is mental cruelty.

A short time ago I met a couple on the train who had a little boy and an older sister. He kept hitting his sister and every time she tried to defend herself she was sharply reprimanded by her parents. This girl obviously lives a miserable life and her parents should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves.

I would appeal to every parent to treat children with the same respect they'd treat strangers. These people were nice enough to the conductor but disgraceful in their lack of courtesy to their 10-year old daughter. Why don't educated people put some heart into this business of raising children?

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON:

David, the Shepherd King Was Unusual Bible Hero

Continuing our study of outstanding personalities in the Old Testament, we come to a consideration of the many-sided hero of the Israelites — David, the Shepherd King.

Because there was no member of the house of Saul who could succeed to the throne and because God and the prophet Samuel both had their eyes on the shepherd boy of Bethlehem as the next leader of the nation, David was anointed King over Israel. The use of the word "shepherd" in II Samuel 5: 1-5, is interesting. David, who had spent his boyhood watching sheep, now becomes ruler over the Israelites and becomes their "shepherd," — one who tenderly looks after and cares for his human "sheep."

The rise of the shepherd boy to King of Israel is paralleled by the rise of the city of Jerusalem. Captured by the armies of Israel, Jerusalem, from that time on, became the physical centre of the Jewish nation. Located on a rocky ridge running down through central Palestine, it was the natural site for Solomon's Temple, which was constructed by David's son, after David's death.

Perhaps the most outstanding characteristics of David's nature was his loyalty to God. A reading of the life of this man reveals that he was human, he fell often into sin and error like the rest of us — but he was always heartbroken at the thought of his sin and was always penitent and ready to confess and atone.

Someone asked Dwight L. Moody some years ago, "Don't you think David fell as low as King Saul," to which Mr. Moody replied: "Certainly he did: He fell lower, because God has lifted him up higher. The difference is that when Saul fell, there was no sign of repentance, but when David fell, a wall went up from his broken heart, and there was true repentance." Saul collapsed as a king because earlier he had collapsed spiritually.

David accomplished many things, as king, to make Israel great as a nation. He won great battles and he founded a dynasty. But, above all, he restored to Israel the worship of God. He had the Ark brought back from its hiding place and even from captivity in the hands of the Philistines, and set it up in Jerusalem, at the centre of his new state. He put God first.

While many do not agree, it is just as necessary for the nations of the world today to restore the true worship of God to its rightful place as it was for old Israel and Judah to do it. General Eisenhower, some months after the end of World War II, in speaking to a great conference of church leaders, declared: "Gentlemen, we must either find a spiritual solution to the terrible problems of our world, or we will all go up together in one great cloud of atomic dust."

David's consciousness of the loving care of God was a great influence on his people. It becomes their greatest bulwark of strength and was the foundation on which their whole national life rested. David was never too busy to worship, to pray, to attend the services of worship with his people. With him, God came first. While he was busy building a great nation, he was never so absorbed by this great task that he forgot God. What a lesson this is for our leaders today. If we are too busy at our tasks that we have no time for God, we are just too, too busy. You haven't time for God, you say, You'd better look over your schedule. Into what are you pouring your time and your energies. Always remember, eternity is a long, long time.

LION STALKS TOWN STREETS

RYCROFT.—A roaring, 750-pound African lion, which stalked the streets of this Peace River town for more than an hour, was killed last week by a fusillade of bullets.

Owner A. J. Cody of Edmonton consented to it being shot—"before someone gets mangled"—after conceding the animal could three lions in Mr. Cody's touring carnival, it escaped from its cage not be recaptured. Biggest of early in the morning, passing within 15 feet of three sleeping carnival hands and made its way down town.

Most of the town's 300 residents who were awakened by the roar of the king of beasts watched the jungle animal from behind locked doors.

During its period of freedom the only damage it caused was to rip a pile of cardboard containers to shreds.

After refusing to re-enter its cage, baited with fresh meat, the snarling lion was shot by town residents Herb Cobb and Jerry Dika and R.C.M.P. Constable O. Poll.

Poll fired three shots at 20 feet from his service revolver but the fatal bullet was believed fired by Dika who lodged a shot in the lion's brain. The slain lion was given to Dika as a trophy. He said he will skin and mount it.

Short Supply Causes High Meat Prices

High meat prices are caused largely by short supply, Colin Cambell, of Gainers' Ltd., and past president of the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce told Edmonton Kiwanians at their luncheon meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Campbell outlined cost and profit to farmers, packing plants and butchers and stated that none of these meat handlers was making more than a fair profit. He declared that the real move towards lower meat prices lay in an increased supply.

BOOK BANNED AGAIN

Letter to Louisa

Girl Lacks Friends In Small Alberta Town

Dear Louisa—I am a girl of 15 who does not know many nice girls or boys. The ones I do know do not ask me to go out with them or have anything to do with me.

I have been told that I am too quiet and bashful for the boys to talk to me. I know a couple of nice boys but am not allowed to go out with them. Please tell me how I can learn to talk with girls and boys without blushing.

Would you also tell me how to make acquaintances with boys, and about what age can a girl start going out to dances? Miss L. M.

Answer—Your problem is quite a common one among young people who live in small towns or on farms.

A complex such as this gives rise to the belief among many young people that there is actually something wrong with them, whereas actually there is nothing of the sort.

The only thing for you to do is to go ahead and make conversation with young people of your age—there is no other solution to your problem.

As for when you can start going out to dances, I do not think 16 is too young for the occasional date.

Just be your natural self, do not worry about your bashfulness, and I am sure you will make many fine acquaintances before you are much older.

Husband's Health

Dear Louisa.—I wonder if you can help me with my problem. My husband says he is well but in the evening he eats his supper at 6 p.m. and goes to bed at 9 and in about two hours he begins to sweat so much that the sheets and pillow cases are real wet.

I have told him to go and see a doctor but he won't. I wonder if his hard breathing is caused by heavy smoking?

I always ask him if he feels any pains at night and he says only when he is lying on his back. He says he sometimes feels as if something is choking him. Mrs. R. B.

Answer—The only thing I can suggest to you, madam, is that it is imperative for your husband to see his doctor immediately.

Possibly his condition is nothing really serious, and then again perhaps it is. But you will never know until a doctor has been consulted.

and until then you will worry about his condition, not knowing what it is caused by.

Men are usually difficult to reason with when a doctor is concerned, but it is important that you make your husband see the light of day, and consult one.

But one word of caution—do not urge that he see a doctor in a nagging tone, because no man likes to be nagged. Instead, show that it is your interest in his health and welfare that prompts you to urge him seeing his doctor. —Louisa.

Crop Prospects Improving As Conditions Now Ideal

Growing conditions in Alberta were almost ideal during the past week and crops generally made satisfactory progress.

GREEN ACRES

By S. W. PETTEM
Raspberry Diseases

Two common ailments of raspberries are mosaic and leaf curl. These are both virus diseases and knowledge of control is limited. When a plant is infected with mosaic the leaves turn light green, become mottled with yellow, turn brown and die. If infected with leaf curl the leaves turn dark green, then become wrinkled and curled. The only only treatment is the removal and burning of diseased plants.

Check Harvest Machines Early

Combines and swathers have many fast moving parts, in which there is considerable wear in a harvest season. Now is the time to check harvesting machinery and order needed repairs so as to avoid costly field delays.

Bees Need More Room

Empty combs should be made available to the bees at this season of the year to provide sufficient room to accommodate the nectar the bees may gather. Providing extra supers will also help to prevent swarming. It is also advisable to cage the queen at this time of the year.

Harvest Help

Present crop conditions indicate that there will be an increased need for harvest help this fall. Eastern harvesters will likely be seeking work and will be placed in areas where needed by the employment offices. Inform this office early as to the number of men you will require for harvest and efforts will be made to secure men. Men will be placed in order of application.

Haying

Haying operations are now well under way. Both grasses and legumes should be cut when in the bloom in order to make the best feed. Farmers are missing a good bet if they do not take advantage of the luxuriant growth along the roadsides this year.

GRAIN PLANTS ARE POPULAR

F. F. Parkinson, supervisor of projects, Alberta department of agriculture, reports that the services provided by the four municipal seed cleaning plants in operation in Alberta during the past season have met with splendid response from farmers of the surrounding districts. These plants, which were built under a policy of provincial and municipal assistance, are located at Camrose, Westlock, Wetaskiwin and Morinville. The Camrose plant began operation in February of last year, the Westlock plant in November, and the other two last January.

As well as cleaning grain for farmers, these plants act as distributing centres for good seed, whether grown locally or shipped in from outside. In spite of the short season's run of the three new plants, a total of over 450,000 bushels of seed grain was cleaned for close to 2,000 farmers.

Approximately 50 carloads of seed were brought in, cleaned, and distributed to farmers who were short of seed as a result of last year's poor crops. Over 50 per cent of the grain cleaned was treated at the plants for smut control with Ceresan M slurry treatment. The plants are equipped with up-to-date, efficient cleaning and treating equipment, and are inspected by both dominion and provincial authorities to ensure proper operation.

With this set-up available, says the supervisor, no farmer in the districts of Camrose, Westlock, Wetaskiwin or Morinville has any excuse for sowing anything but good clean seed.

Nation Mourns Passing Of Mackenzie King, Statesman

Symbolic of the respect held by Canadians for the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the streets of Ottawa Wednesday were lined with 50,000 citizens as the body of the 75-year-old statesman was borne in a state funeral procession from Parliament Hill.

Death of Mr. King, five times elected to the highest political office in this country, was felt by the entire nation.

The shock was not as great as it would have been if he was still Prime Minister, but when news came last Saturday evening, thoughts of all Canadians turned to his career. He died at his summer home of Kingsmere, in the rolling Quebec hills across the river from Ottawa, after being unconscious for nearly 48 hours following an acute attack of pneumonia.

He had been failing as the result of a long-standing cardiovascular ailment, but up until almost the end, his doctors thought he would pull through.

That long-standing ailment prompted him to give up the Liberal party leadership August 7, 1948, 29 years after he had assumed it. No other party leader in a British Commonwealth country has exceeded that record.

Mr. King served as prime minister 21 years, five months and five days—also a Commonwealth record.

After resigning his leadership, Mr. King retained his seat in the House of Commons as representative of the small Quebec constituency of Glengary until Parliament was dissolved on April 30, 1949, prior to the last election.

Mr. King's death ended the self-imposed task of writing his memoirs for the public archives.

Mr. King—who never married—is survived by only one relative, a sister, Mrs. H. N. Lay of Barrie, Ontario.

In a public career of nearly 50 years, Mr. King left an imprint on Canadian life that only history will fully reveal. During the years of his leadership, Canada grew from a Dominion to a leading world power, and along with that national growth came an era of social legislation unparalleled elsewhere in the world.

When King and the Liberal party went back to Ottawa in 1935, the wheels were set in motion of an extensive social welfare program that created unemployment insurance, family allowances, veteran gratuities, and other measures of wide scope.

Mr. King's last public appearance was in mid-June during the Imperial press conference of the Empire Press Union which brought to Ottawa newspaper publishers from all parts of the Commonwealth.

Mr. King, who started out in life as a social worker, later newspaperman, and then statesman, started his government career in 1900 when he was appointed deputy minister of labor. In 1908 he was elected to the Commons as member for the Ontario constituency of Waterloo North.

In 1909 Mr. King was appointed to the cabinet as Minister of Labor, and in 1919 succeeded Sir Wilfrid Laurier as leader of the Liberal party at a national convention.

He started his first term as prime minister in 1921, and in 1930 his party was defeated, with MACKENZIE KING, Canada's long-time Prime Minister, for whom funeral services were held in Ottawa Wednesday, July 26. 50,000 people lined the streets of Ottawa for the procession. He was buried in Toronto next day. So ended an era.

Mr. King going to the opposition benches for five years. He came back to Ottawa as prime minister after the 1935 general election, successfully leading the party in the new elections in 1940 and 1945.

During the war years he conferred with Roosevelt and Churchill on several occasions, and in 1945 headed the Canadian delegation to the San Francisco conference which laid the groundwork for the United Nations.

In 1946 Mr. King led the Canadian delegation to the Paris Peace Conference where the treaties of peace were drawn up with Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland.

In 1948 he returned to French Canada, personified in Louis St. Laurent, the mantle of leadership he had received from Laurier.

Body of Mr. King was interred in a family plot at Toronto on Thursday.
